

It was Saturday morning. Sue did not need to go to school and she was bored at home. Her mother told her 'I need to go to the supermarket to buy some food. What food do you want for breakfast tomorrow?' Sue said, 'I want sandwiches. Can I go with you?' 'Sure,' said Mum. They went to the supermarket together.

When they arrived at the market, they found out different kinds of food and drinks on the shelves. Sue said, 'Mum, I want to have sandwiches for breakfast tomorrow. Let's buy some sandwiches.' Mum said, 'Which sandwiches do you like, tuna sandwiches or cheese sandwiches?' 'I'd like tuna sandwiches. Tuna sandwiches are my favourite food. Shall we buy cheese sandwiches for dad?' Sue asked. Mum said, 'That's a good idea!' They took some tuna sandwiches and cheese sandwiches and put them into the trolley.

Sue and her mum wanted to buy some apple juice too. 'Shall we buy some juice too?' Mum asked. 'I like apple juice.' Sue answered. When they walked to the shelves, they discovered that there was no apple juice. They were very disappointed.

Sue and her mum wandered around the supermarket. 'I think we can buy apples in a grocery store nearby,' Sue said. 'Yes. We can use the apples to make apple juice,' said Mum. Finally, Sue and her mum went to the grocery store nearby and to buy some apples. They were happy and they made apple juice at home.
