

My dream job

By Chan Sze Wing, Coco (6A)

Today my English teacher asked me, 'What do you want to be when you grow up?' I said, 'I want to be a .....

Could you guess my answer? I would like to be a teacher when I grow up. I have many reasons why I think this is a good job for me. The first reason is I am hard-working. When I finish my homework, I study and have preparation before lessons. Sometimes I find extra information and study that. I am also patient and understanding. My teachers are always kind to me, I learnt that teachers need to be hard-working and patient so that they can teach children.

The second reason is I am good at many subjects, for example, Maths and Chinese. I can get high marks in exam. Teachers are good at the subjects that they teach so that they can help children to understand the work completely.

The third reason is I am good at communicating my ideas. I can speak Chinese fluently. I also like reading storybooks and telling my friends and family about these interesting stories after I have finished reading. I should read more English books so that I can improve my English.

The last reason is I think this is a meaningful job. If I become a teacher, I will help students acquire knowledge and cultivate morality. I will work in a school where I will teach many students.

I hope I will be a teacher one day.
